

Within the tested A-B separation range, the on-axis minus off-axis difference trends negative (not positive) with separation

