

The average hides a split: role leaks less to the wrong persona, more to the default assistant

Same cells as the average-leakage panel, split by probe. Wrong-persona probes use each arm's own encoding (base priors differ: -21.65 system vs -20.68 role); the default-assistant probe is encoding-identical across arms (base -22.09), so its cross-arm comparison is base-clean.

