

Does the weight-space write match the measured activation shift?

grey line = wrong-context null p95; EM control in its own color

