

The marker's probability rises before the model starts emitting it

