

The two on-policy measures agree on the source, not on the rest

Both put the software engineer far above the pack, but across the 27 other personas the two orderings barely correlate (Spearman $\rho = 0.19$, $p = 0.34$, $n = 28$).

