

Training the default assistant as a negative does not suppress leakage to the default context

